

Editor's note

Pafos 2017 European Capital of Culture kicked off to a flying start on a cold but dry evening on 28th January. We have news of that and the events during February and later in the year.

This is the time of year, before the start of the main property selling period, to reflect on last year and give thought to the prospects of 2017. We have prepared a review of the market and given some of the factors that have placed Cyprus in a good position to move forward and also suggested some of the markets that are opening up.

Finally, news just in of the launch of 'Zyprus.com'. We are pleased to say that we have worked closely with the Zyprus team during its two year development programme and we believe it offers a fresh and informative platform for the selling of properties in Cyprus, even surpassing Zoopla for Cyprus properties.
