

Editor's note

Now the worst of the Summer heat is almost over, with the arrival of September the Island is taking on a slightly quieter air. We still have lots of visitors but most of the schools have gone back so it is couples and very young families who are here enjoying the hotels, beaches and restaurants.

The annual opera was a great success again this year but with so much happening in Paphos 2017 there will be lots more to enjoy. Keep an eye on the schedule, there's bound to be something for everyone.

It's great to hear official figures supporting our own thoughts about the desirability of life in Cyprus. Although slightly more expensive than some other countries there is a huge variety of things to see and do in this wonderfully diverse country.

I hope you find something of interest in this month's newsletter and don't forget we welcome any comments from you, so please just jot us a note with thoughts and ideas for things you would like to see covered.

Pafos 2017

The month of September kicked off with the 19th Pafos Aphrodite Festival! Hoping you all went, it took place on the first 3 days of the month at Pafos Medieval Castle, presenting W.A. Mozart's popular and romantic opera Die Entführung aus dem Serail (The abduction from the Seraglio). A hard act to follow, the Pafos2017 organisers have provided an eclectic mix of events in September to continue what has so far been an impressive run. Read More

Cyprus Popularity

According to figures from property website RightMove, Cyprus is the 7th most popular country to move to for Britons seeking to relocate or looking to buy a second property, Paphos being the most popular region. Read More (Courtesy of Cyprus Property News)
